

It's THE BEACHNIKS TROMBONE BAY

This is the story of the Beachniks, four musicians from the small coastal town of Trombone Bay who have exploited Mother Nature's wrath to create a totally original album.

After freakishly heavy Autumnal rain this year, massive rock slides cut access to many properties in Trombone Bay. The Beachniks "4 Track Shack" was one of them.

The Beachniks found themselves marooned with just two scratchy vinyl albums to play on their Chrysler 3-in-1 Stereogram: Donovan's 'Greatest Hits' and 'Rocking Time' by reggae legends Burning Spear.

Surviving on this meagre 2-album musical diet that was a heady brew of sunshine psychedelic pop and roots reggae, the Beachniks emerged from their shack four months later with their second album, TROMBONE BAY.

The new disc unleashes an innovative new "surf sound", one that is totally unaffected by any "latest musical craze". It's as if Jamaican Studio One legend, Lee Scratch Perry met Brian Wilson and they hung out at Malibu together.

So where are these guys now, you ask? As self-confessed surf-aholics, the Beachniks rarely venture too far away from the water, however keep a keen eye out for the many gigs they'll be doing throughout summer to promote the release of TROMBONE BAY

The "Nu-Surf Sound" of the Beachniks has hit, so "dig it, man!"
